Udon Thani Museum,(Rachinuthit School)

This museum has been re-decorated the former Rachinuthit school to exhibit the history, development, cultural change of Udon Thani. The building and the location which is connected to Nong Prajak Park is a worth visiting in City Tour.

Ban Chiang National Museum.

The surveying and excavation of Ban Chiang during 1974-1975 was done by the cooperation of Department of Fine Arts and the University of Pennsylvania , USA and found that the area had been the settlement of prehistoric people who were agriculturists during 1,800 - 5,600 years ago. The findings were bronze, iron utensils, terra-cotta, glass like beads, woven cloth. They even cultivated rice.

Ban Chiang National Museum was established in 1987 exhibiting excavation of Ban Chiang and adjacent sites. The exhibition is comprising of terra cotta and painted pottery. The latter is considered a symbol of Ban Chiang. Bronze tools are 5,600 years old and iron tools are 3,600 years old.

Ban Chiang National Museum is divided into 3 parts.

1. Pra Sri Nakarintara Borommaratcha Chonnane building: It was built by the aid of John F. Kennedy Foundation and completed in 1987. The exhibition is divided into two parts which are Ban Chiang in the past, presenting excavated findings and the other part shows the way of life of Ban Chiang people at present, who are Tai Puan.

2. Tai Puan House (a typical house style) :

Tai Puan House is 700 meters to the south-east of the Ban Chiang National Museum which formerly belonged to Mr. Pot Montriphithak and was donated to the Department of Fine Arts. Many archeological findings were found from the excavation at this area. The King and the Queen visited this site on 20 March, 1972.

3. Wat Phosri Nai Site :

Wat Phosri Nai site is 500 meters from Ban Chiang National Museum to the east. This place exhibits the archeological findings in original settings as they were found together with explanations of Ban Chiang civilization.

Ban Chiang as world heritage :

Ban Chiang archeological site leaves important trace of civilization and how people adapted to the environment harmoniously. We could learn how they solved different problems. In 1992 the committee of World Heritage had registered Ban Chiang civilization as world heritage No. 359 in accordance with standardization No. 3 which represents the uniqueness.

Historical Park Of

PHU PHA BAT

Historical Park of Phu Pha Bat is located on "Phu Pha Bat" which is a part of Phu Phan range, the west of Udon Thani with average elevation of 320-350 meters from sea level or 120-160 from the plain. It is 11 kilometers from Amphoe Banphue. Geological evidence suggested that in millions of years this region had been covered with glacier. When the glacier moved down with the gravity it created erosion of the earth surface as a consequence we see rocks of various shapes.

Approximately 3,000-2,500 years ago there were traces of prehistoric people hunting and collecting forest products on this mountain. Stone wall paintings can be found in various locations with palms, animals, geometrical shapes painted red. Some of these paintings reflects ways of life of people and animals of ancient days. During historic time this area had been utilized regularly. Many locations seemed to have been the places of ceremonial performance. Places were named from the folk tale of "Usa-Baros" which is believed to be real and happened in this locality such as, Hor Nang Usa (Usa's tower), Wat

Pho Ta (father-in-law), Wat Luk Khoei (son-in-law), Baros's stable and hermit's cave, but in reality these places were constructed by ancient people thousands of years in the past. We can say that this is the most significant historical site of upper part of north-eastern region. Department of fine Arts has announced the registration of Phu Pha Bat a historical

Since 1989 Phu Pha Bat has been conserved and developed to Phu Pha Bat historical park, an important studying and tourist site of Udon Thani.
